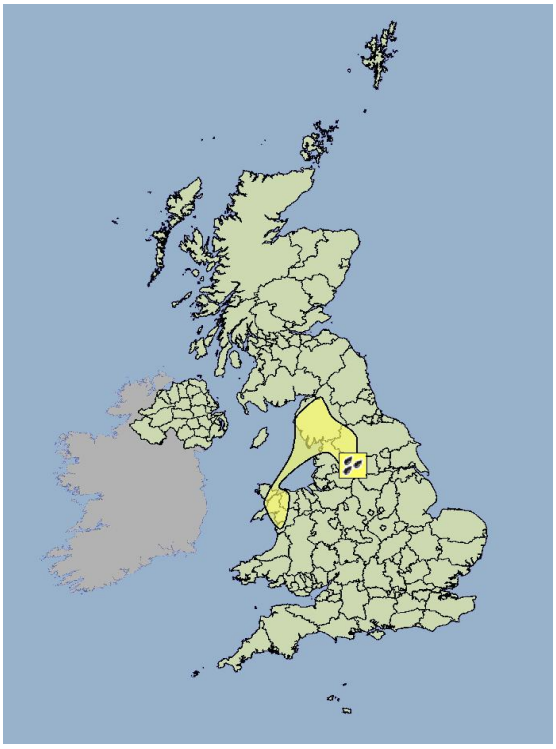
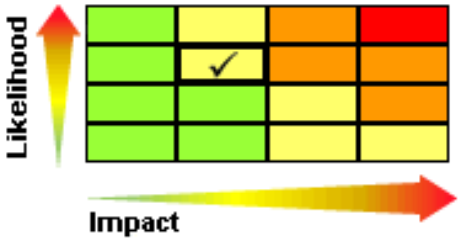
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Rain is expected to set in at the end of Tuesday, becoming heavy early on Wednesday, especially over high ground. Rain will be clearing southeastwards during the afternoon but before this happens, 50 to 80 mm may fall across hills, with perhaps 100 mm over the Cumbrian fells.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 00:05 on Wed, 11th Oct 2017 until 15:00 on Wed, 11th Oct 2017

Heavy rain is expected on Wednesday, and may lead to some flooding - for example, spray and surface water on roads looks like making journey times longer.
